From the Desk of Executive Director

Sharad Institute of Technology College of Engineering is an emerging world-class Start-up incubator in the State of Maharashtra. The focus SITCOE is to cultivate rural human resource into responsible technocrats by availing first-class innovation & research centers equipped with advanced technology, ultimate, affecting on socio-economic status and life standard of its all stakeholders. We aim to build responsible engineers and create impactful start-up by providing mentors, entrepreneurship development training, industry connect and fundraising support with help of our global network of mentors, industry experts and investors. We provide 'Earn while you Learn' options with our industry partners that helps to reduce students' financial burden of education and at the same time enables them to gain precious industry exposure.

To insure it, we have approached First Time NBA accreditation of all programs of engineering. The norms of NBA accreditation are in-line with international standards framed for technical institutions. Graduating from NBA accredited SITCOE will enable the students to have - good infrastructure, standard curriculum, excellent academic, standard evaluation systems, research and training opportunities, thus, providing all the requisites for versatile development of all stakeholders. It is the aroma and aura gained by the student from SITCOE which cannot be explained rather observed, felt and experienced through the academic performance of our students. I strongly believe in autonomy of an institute, because autonomous institute gets the equal rights and status with IITs and NITs. It helps in giving the students environment almost equivalent to best colleges, which can fetch quite unbelievable results. Autonomy benefits the teaching and academic profession at large and permits the academic institution to design its own courses and syllabi based on requirements of ever growing needs of industries and helps to get various government funds for research and projects. It also attracts reputed companies for in campus drive and opens the gate of MNC for the students.

By rightly setting this ultimate trio: NBA Accreditation, autonomy and Start-up, I have great pleasure & proud feeling to declare that Sharad Institute of Technology College of Engineering is standing tall and successfully adding golden feathers after feathers in its cap.
